FRANKLYN-MOORE WEDDING LAST NIGHT.

There was a pretty home wedding at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bryans, corner Davis and Lee streets last night at 8:30 o'clock, when their sister Miss Nora Franklyn and Mr. Philip E. Moore of Century, Fla., were united in marriage.

The house was prettily decorated with Christmas greens and beautiful flowering plants and the groom's friend Justice W. H. Mitchell of Century, Fla., officiated in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

The bride wore a dainty gown of ivory crepe and looked extremely well in her soft draperies.

Mrs. Lounsbury played the wedding march as the young couple entered and the lovely strains of "Heavenward" floated softly from the piano during the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore left on the midnight train for Century where a pretty home was all prepared and awaiting them.

EXCELSIOR FLUNCH MET WITH MRS. MCALLISTER.

Mrs. "Dick" McAllister entertained the Excelsior Flunch Club Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 6.

Daylight had been excluded from the rooms which were illuminated by tangles, the soft light bringing out the beautiful red in the Christmas decorations.

Miss Nell Richards gracefully served. A delicious two course luncheon was daintily served, the first of chicken salad with peas in tomato cups and the second a fruit salad with fruit cake.

Mrs. W. L. Hahn was the special guest and the next meeting will be with Mrs. Charles Rice.

PRETTY WEDDING OF MISS HOER AND MR. JOHNSON.

One of the loveliest quiet home weddings of the Christmas season took place at the residence of Mr.

and Mrs. Peter Hoer Tuesday evening, Dec. 26, at 8 o'clock, when their daughter Katie was married to Mr. Frank Johnson, Rev. F. A. Rogers pastor of the Gadsden street M. E. church officiating.

The bride was tastefully dressed in a blue traveling suit with hat to match and the groom was in conventional black.

Promptly at the appointed hour the bride and groom entered the parlor and standing under a beautiful white wedding bell which was surrounded by decorations of ivy and tinsel hearts, they were joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The house was beautifully decorated and the dining table was indeed a picture of simple loveliness.

Many handsome wedding gifts attested the popularity of the young couple and the hosts of friends wish for them prosperity, joy and happiness in their future life.

The groom is an esteemed employee of the railroad company in Columbia, Miss., where the young people will be at home after a limited visit to Mr. Johnson's parents at Brent, Fla.

The Journal's Daily Fashion Feature

A Dainty Breakfast Sacque.

These are the days when the wise shopper goes forth on bargains intent for materials for the dozen and one garments that go to complete the wardrobe may like as not be found on the bargain counters if one but be observant. The little dressing sacque illustrated is an example of a fascinating garment that the wearer—and she is also the maker says—costs her the proverbial "song." The remnant of chaille of cream, spotted over with brown rings, is cut in shirt-waist fashion to the belt, then little skirt pieces attached. For trimming she found a bargain length of fine swiss beading fully an inch and a half wide. This is used about the large sailor collar, to band the sleeves, and to form a belt, and is run with a wide brown velvet ribbon. The collar and sleeves are further finished with a ruffle of swiss embroidery. It is all "bargain counter," says the wearer, except the velvet ribbon. In these little odd jackets one may use all sorts of apparently useless patterns to great advantage if the trimming scheme be but cleverly planned.

THE SOMALI.

They are habitually idle and always merry—Their Peculiar Headgear.

By nature Somalis are alternately docile and savage, nearly always merry and habitually idle. Even in busy Aden they work as little as possible and then do no manual work, for their inherent pride forbids that. Cab driving, boat manning and grooming are the general crafts of the Aden Somali. In the interior of his own country his principal occupations are plundering and cattle lifting, at which latter pursuit he is said to be unparalleled in skill. In religion they are all Mohammedans.

The great peculiarity of the Somali is, however, his hair, for, contrary to the custom of most races professing Islam, he does not shave his head, but allows his locks to run wild. Nor is his hair the wool of the negro, for instead of growing in one dense cluster all over his head, as is the case of the Galla, for instance, it tangles into long cords, not unlike those of a poodle, which, parted over his forehead, hangs down on both cheeks, often projecting almost as far as his shoulders.

Not content with the show of hair that nature and neglect insure him, he plasters his head with a peculiar light clay, which has the effect of bleaching its blackness to a light reddish hue, and a Somali in a new robe, as their winding sheet of a garment is called, and a freshly clayed head is the very acme of dandyism.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Peter Lindenstruth,

The Jeweler.

When General Fitzhugh Lee died, T. C. De Leon wrote a four line tribute to him, which was printed in the Mobile Register on the day of the funeral. Some ladies of New Orleans organized a new Fitzhugh Lee Chapter of the U. D. C. and adopted as their motto the quatrain, which ran as follows:

"War graced a name deep on his rubric'd shield;
Peace traced it
